Luray-Page County Center

I feel the Center is a perfect place for people in this area to start their education. It is the best economic choice and is close to home. It is a great opportunity for people who have already entered the workforce to return to school because of the evening classes offered. And it is great for students just graduating who want to get the basics and prepare for a bigger four year institution.

Sunaree “Cindy” Hasino lived in many different parts of the world before graduating from Luray High School and credits Lord Fairfax Community College with helping her realize her potential.

There is no better place to be than Lord Fairfax Community College, Luray-Page County Center. My experience here has been marvelous. I was undecided as to what I wanted to do when graduating from high school. Within a short period of time after meeting with an advisor here, I knew where I was heading. I was grateful for the help that I received. Professors here care about the students.

After working at VF Jeanswear in Luray, Va., for a combined 33 years, Rick and Theresa Gillenwater were distraught to learn in 2006 that their jobs would be moving overseas. Fortunately, Theresa remembered hearing about Lord Fairfax Community College’s (LFCC) Luray-Page County Center. She researched LFCC’s Nursing Program and decided to go back to school to obtain her nursing degree. As she was nearing completion of her licensed practical nurse (LPN) classes, she convinced her husband Rick to join her at LFCC.

“Seeing the pride in the eyes of our children when they watch me study, knowing the sacrifices I have to make to finish my education … They make the long, hard days worth every minute.”
—Teresa Gillenwater, LFCC student

“I love the friendly atmosphere at LFCC. The one-on-one with instructors and the accessibility of instructors lets you know they really care.”
—Rick Gillenwater, LFCC student
